PARLIAMENT.

The Liquor Question.

OTTAWA, 18.—The House of Commons today discussed the liquor question and the permit system in the Northwest for five years. A motion of want of confidence in the government for permitting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the National Park Hotel at Banff was rejected. At a meeting in the Grand Opera House here tonight a resolution was adopted calling for the disallowance of the Jesuit act and stating that if Jesuit intrigues do not cease their expulsion will be demanded.

Provincial Power.

OTTAWA, 20.—Hon. Mr. Dewdney's Northwest bill was distributed today. It is largely a consolidation of the existing measures touching the local government of the Territories. The assembly created last session out of the Territorial council and accorded such minor powers as that the council exercised, is elevated to a position approximating that held by the various provincial legislatures of old Canada.

It is to have authority on the following matters:—Direct taxation for territorial or municipal purposes; the establishment and tenure of Territorial offices, the establishment, maintenance and management of prisons and municipal institutions in the Territories; shops, saloons, taverns, auctioneers and other licenses, in order to raise a revenue for Territorial or municipal purposes; the incorporation of companies (except such companies as cannot be incorporated by a Provincial Legislature), and excepting in addition railway, steamboat, tramway, canal, transportation, telegraph and telephone companies. The legislature will have authority on matters relating to property and civil rights in the Territories, the administration of justice in the Territories, including the constitution and maintenance of courts of civil jurisdiction (but not the power of judicial officers); the imposition of punishment by fine, penalty or imprisonment for violation of the Territorial Ordinances, and all matters of general and local character. By a reference to the British North American Act it will be seen that the legislature is really to have all the power of a provincial legislature, except the power to amend the constitution, to borrow money, to manage or sell public land and to establish asylums or hospitals. The granting of the power to the legislature to issue soap, saloon and tavern licenses removes from the Dominion Government all responsibility touching the liquor question. The present legislature, however, cannot deal with the matter. The bill says, "No change shall be made by the same legislative assembly in the existing law as to intoxicating liquors, nor shall any legislation in relation to the granting of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor or to the importation, manufacture, possession, barter, sale or disposal thereof, be passed until the dissolution of the legislative assembly has afforded the people of the Northwest Territories an opportunity to express their opinion as to the nature of the legislation on this subject, which shall hereafter take effect."

OTTAWA, 22.—In the House of Commons Saturday Sir John stated in reply to a question that additional railway subsidies and supplementary estimates would be brought down on Monday.

It is believed that the Andersons have now received from the government an intimation that their contract has been favorably considered, and that it is only necessary to settle details. Steps will probably be taken to expedite the completion of the new contract, so that the direct Canadian mail service will be speedily resumed.

ARCTIC EXPLORERS.

Start on a Trip of Adventure and Select the Best course.

The Everest exploring party, whose start from Winnipeg was announced in the Herald's telegraphic dispatches left Calgary for Edmonton at 4 a.m. Thursday. The following are to be the objects of the expedition:—from the Winnipeg Free Press.

The Everest exploring party leave for the land of midnight sun to-day. Most of the party went west yesterday to Neah-burn, from which point the start will be made on to day's west train. Hon. A. W. Everest leads the party; with him is Count de Sainville, a French nobleman; and Mr. T. Young, Lake Manitoba who, in Canada Pacific Railway and other survey work has had wide experience in journeying through wildernesses, will act somewhat in the capacity of guide and courier. The party may be reinforced to-day by a Winnipeg gentlemen, but this is doubtful.

The explorers go west to Calgary, thence they cross the prairie to Edmonton and from that place they will proceed to Athabasca Landing. They will descend the Mackenzie river to its mouth, which is well within the Arctic circle. At Fort Chipewyan the will build a boat. If they think it can be done they will attempt the somewhat venturesome task of coasting the shore of the Arctic Sea westward of rounding Point Barrow until Behring Straits are reached. Sailing through these straits they will pass along first Alaska and then British Columbia coasts until they reach Victoria. The journey is an adventurous one, covering thousands of miles, going well into the Arctic Circle and requiring about a year's time to complete it.

Elaborate provisions have been made for the trip. They carry with them orders to the Hudson Bay officials which will result in all the resources of the company in the far north being placed at their disposal. They are also taking waxes with them for barter. They do not expect to meet with any hostility from the natives, excepting in the vicinity of Frost Barrow, where the Eskimos are warlike and not altogether in love with the white man. Of course the party will go thoroughly armed.

The prime object of the expedition is to gratify a love for adventure, but there will also be a scientific side to the venture and they will endeavor to add something to the world's knowledge of that portion of the Arctic circle. Count de Sainville will carry a camera with him, by means of which he will convey to the world some idea of the sombre scenery of the Arctic seas. He proposes donating any collections he may make to the French government.

The journey will be watched with keen interest, as the parties are well known here.

ALBERTA & GREAT NORTHWESTERN

It is evident from the contradictory despatches received from day to day that the champion of Canadian prevaricators, the Ottawa journalistic liar, is devoting considerable attention to the Alberta & Great Northwestern Railway. Too much reliance must not be placed upon the Ottawa despatches with regard to this scheme, for it is evident from the numerous contradictions that have been already received, that the Ottawa correspondents do not depend upon the most reliable sources of information for the substance of their despatches with regard to this work.

The present position of the railroad question could not be more hopeful. The English company which has taken over this charter is anxious to go ahead with the work providing the government can see its way clear to give the required assistance. The government is just as anxious to see the road built, and has already made concessions such as have never before been given to any railway in Canada.

BRITISH BREEDS OF CATTLE.

Thanks to the large amount of standard bred live stock being imported into Canada, the Dominion is becoming recognized as one of the best producing countries of fancy stock in the world. The third volume of Chambers' Encyclopedia just issued in an article on British cattle gives a concise account of the cattle of Canada, and it is noted that "just as the English language has submerged all others in the gradual development of the American continent, so has British blood become the dominating element in the main bulk of the cattle stock of the country. A brief historical sketch is given of each of the dozen native British breeds, beginning with the six English races, namely; Shorthorns, Herefords, Devon, Norfolk and Suffolk red polled, Sussex and Longhorns. Welsh cattle of different varieties are treated as practically one race, and the four Scotch breeds are described in the following order:—Pollled Aberdeen-Angus, Galloway, Ayrshire, and West Highland, due attention being also given to the one Irish breed, the thrifty little Kerry, with its two sub-varieties. In addition to these twelve native races, and the almost endless variety of crosses between two or more of them, it is pointed out that other two very useful breeds, the Jersey and the Guernsey, have become dominant in the British Isles."

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

The introduction in the House of Commons of a government bill providing for Territorial control of the liquor question, brings the old burning question into prominence again. The government will be roundly abused by the prohibitionists for "outraging all feeling of decency morality" and the rest of it, and as cordially denounced by many in the Territories for not taking such action as will place the liquor question under the control of the Territorial Legislature at once, instead of waiting until the next Territorial elections.

The prohibitionists are bound to complain, for this action of the government is an official acknowledgment that the pet prohibitory law of Canadian prohibitionists is a dismal failure, a fact recognised by the people of the Territories long ago. We must remember, however, and it to be hoped that the government will remember that the prohibitionist's protest will be on behalf of their pet and not in any way in the interests of the country, concerned in the matter. This so-called prohibitory legislation has been simply a curse to this country and it is impossible to realize how any man having the best interest of the country at heart could conscientiously support its continuance.

Those who complain of the delay in remedying this crying evil, for such it certainly is, are much more deserving of the consideration of the government, for they have the interests of the country at heart.

It is certainly to be regretted that the government cannot see its way clear to do away with this prohibitory law at once but it must be acknowledged that the government dare not act hastily.

It will be noted that as soon as Mr. Dewdney announced the bill, the leader of the opposition in the house accused the government with undue haste, and urged delay. It is very easy to understand why the government puts the funeral of the foreign prohibitory law off, until the next election. This will enable the elector to express itself on the temperance question and will obviate the necessity and expense of a plebiscite on the liquor question. It is a pity that prohibition could not have given its quietus at once, but it will be better late than never. Now that the government has committed itself to the principle of Territorial regulation of the liquor tariff we can look forward without the shadow of a doubt to the time when that principle will be enforced, and that is something to congratulate ourselves upon.

DUMONT THE BRAGGART

The Half-Breed, braggart Dumont, the cowardly leader who in '85 led a party of unfortunate Half-Breeds and Sioux Indians into a trap at Fish Creek on the the Saskatchewan and then deserted them, leaving them to their fate, and ran away at Batoche, is having too much too say just now in the North. He is acting in just the impudent, insolent way which is calculated to lead his easily misled countrymen into open rebellion. He is clearly showing himself a menace to the peace of the country and he should be shut up, the sooner the better. This prince of braggarts has been petted and honored by the Kibitke liberals of Eastern Canada, until he appears to actually consider himself a hero, if not a diminutive deity. He is now trying to pose before his fellow countrymen as their acknowledged leader, and if the government does not do something to keep his braggart tongue in check, we may hear of a rumpus up north some of these days. Dumont lately made a speech at Duck Lake, and in it he said:—"When in Quebec he addressed many meetings, at which he also explained the trouble of 1885. He told them that the government had whipped them, but that a given number of half-breeds well armed could whip a similar number of any other nation in the world. He visited Ottawa, but did not call on Sir John Macdonald, as he did not think it his duty. Sir John should have called on him. An amnesty had now been granted the rebels by the Dominion Government, and that amnesty meant that all the rebels should get their cattle and every other thing lost and confiscated. This was one of the objects of his meetings. He wanted a strong committee formed and a petition sent to the Lieutenant Governor at Regina for his signature and approval and then sent to Ottawa. If the Hon. Mr. Royal refused to sign it then he, as a deputation, would go to Ottawa himself. We must have our claims paid, said Dumont. The Metis were not to blame for the trouble; they were led into it and now they must be paid."

Is there anywhere on record as pronounced a case of impertinence?

SIR JOHN LESTER KAYE.

Sir John Lester Kaye has been doing splendid work for the Northwest while in England. He has been on no holiday jaunt, but has been working hard in the best interests of his company and the Northwest. An idea of what Sir John has been doing and what the effect of his work has been is given by the following extract from an English paper:—

"A scheme of emigration which may have important influence on the settlement of the crofter question was explained by Sir John Lester Kaye, on Thursday to a meeting at Thomson's Hotel, Dover street. That gentleman spoke on behalf of the Northwest Territories of Canada Settlement Company. On twenty-three thousand acres in the Northwest whose fertility has been proved, this company will settle seventy Aberdeenshire, Dumfriesshire and Yorkshire farmers with their families. Every farmer who comes into its plans receive from the company two hundred and forty-six pounds, provided he is able to place two hundred pounds alongside that sum. The total four hundred and forty-six pounds is expended on buildings, implements and improvements. The farmers in the scheme will go out to Canada and find their sheddine, their pigery and their stabling already up. In the stables and sheds they will, moreover, discover their brood mares, their sheep and their pigs, and they will further learn that on each farm of three hundred and twenty acres, twenty acres are already ploughed and ready for seed. All this becomes the property of the farmer at the end of twenty years, after he has paid eighty-nine pounds fifteen per annum for a short period, and a less sum for the remainder of the term. The company look for the success of their plan to the judgment exercised in the selection of land, and of the men who are to work it. They will take into their scheme twenty crofters for every seventy farmers up to the number of four hundred crofters, if the Government choose to assist these latter. So far, for various reasons, crofter immigration has not been an entire success. Here, however, the fact of his having alongside of him the excellent agriculturalist from Aberdeenshire, Dumfriesshire and Yorkshire, will give the crofter the example of what energy can and will do, and will provide him, too, with the requisite example of a good method of agriculture. The scheme seems a commendable one, though it may be doubtful if the Government will see its way to accepting, as they stand, the financial proposals of the company. The plan of immigration sketched out by Sir John Lester Kaye is one deserving earnest and careful consideration by our statesmen."

AGRICULTURAL POSSIBILITIES.

A Competent Authority on the Agricultural Development of the Northwest.

There is doubtless much more still to be thought of in judiciously carrying out this great and important interest. I do not think that the ranchman at the present time is by any means securing the best possible returns for his finished steers.

He must, of course, seek a market in another part of the world. No doubt the great and rapid growing cities of Canada will continue to put forward a big demand.

But the supply will keep pace with and far exceed it for many years. So that outlets must be found. It is thus the markets of Great Britain—that are now so much regarded as the markets of the world—are at once thought of and are already taken advantage of to a great extent, but are at present leaving far too little profit to the ranchman. And the question immediately comes: Is this part of the ranchman's business conducted in the best possible manner? I fear very much it is not. I fear also that ranching steers are not always sent forward in such condition as to entitle Canadian beef to that favor it might otherwise deserve when placed side by side with the best Scotch and English beef—and I dare say there are various reasons for this being so—and a most important question comes. Can anything be done as a remedy in respect of this? It is thought by many that sufficient provision is not made for the comfort of live animals during their long and contracted transit from this western end of Canada to their destination in England, and that they are too frequently landed in a very deteriorated condition. And this deterioration it is believed by some of our most experienced men is very much caused by the great and continued excitement on animals that had never before been under control by the hand of man. And the effect of this excitement upon such animals is undoubtedly greatly aggravated by an amount of rough handling in carrying and uncarrying, shipping and unshipping which probably cannot be avoided. Such excitement extending over hours or even days might have no very injurious effects on the quality of the beef, but when extending over several weeks, coupled with want of food and water, for we know these semi-wild animals will not eat or drink on board the cars or ships in such a manner as will prevent deterioration, all of which taken with the effects of excitement, will undoubtedly have a very damaging effect on color, flavour and actual quality of the carcass when slaughtered.

The day will certainly come when all this condition of things will be changed. We cannot afford, nor will the spirit that imbues nine tenths of the ranchmen of this end of Canada long submit to find that their well bred and otherwise superior steers have to take a 2nd and 3rd place beside those of any other part of the world.

When we come to look at this great and growing branch of Canadian products we more and more see the importance of fostering and protecting the ranching interests. Why it is only a few weeks since a leading English journal published the following paragraph: "It is possible that the importation of live cattle from Canada may be stopped for a time on account of an alarming outbreak of disease which has occurred among the herds in the Calgary district of the Northwest Territories."

This has no doubt some connection with the rumor of a few months ago that the disease known as anthrax had broken out in this district. And it will be in the recollection of Calgary people that Dr. McEachran, of the veterinary college of Montreal, the government inspector for Canada was here Christmas week and immediately reported that the rumor was entirely false. An animal or two had died of the disease known as black leg or quarterill, a disease no doubt closely allied to anthrax, and one that many years ago prevailed to some extent in England and Scotland but has never been regarded as in any degree infectious or contagious.

The paragraph I allude to only shows how careful we ought to be in respect of disease of any kind getting into our herds. And it is to be hoped that our governmental authorities will be vigilantly in respect of the movement lately being made in favor of the abolition of the ninety days quarantine against American cattle entering Canada.

Canada is at present clear of cattle disease of every kind and no part clearer than the Northwest Territories. Let us therefore watch every port-hole that we may long continue so.

I have just said that the ranching interest of the Northwest Territories is a great and growing one. In showing this it is not necessary to allude to statistical figures. However important such figures may be, they are generally regarded as somewhat dry matter, and beyond this there is nothing very reliable to fall back upon. It is greatly to be regretted, that agricultural statistics are not made imperative by provincial authorities. They would be of great interest and value to settlers and ranchmen, and would be read with much real interest in Scotland and England where everything affecting the future of Canada has its attractions.

We have now sufficient statistics to show that the value of exports of live stock from Canada during 1888, exceeds that of 1887, by no less a sum than $560,000. While the export of agricultural produce proper during same period fell off to the extent of $3,000,000 in value. There is nothing that can point more conclusively to the importance of our ranching interests, for although $560,000 is a considerable sum it is merely indicative of the very material increase of our ranching stock. Steers only being sent to market, and a small ratio of barren cows at others being retained to maintain and increase our already large herds.

I have remarked that our sales of ranch cattle, although large, are leaving far too small profit for ranchmen, particularly in the case of cattle shipped to England. And this I know is exciting some concern among ranchmen, and the question has been put: "Can we place our beef steers more advantageously in the English markets by slaughtering at home and forwarding carcasses in a refrigerated or frozen condition?"

This question is undoubtedly very important, because if such a course should be followed other important interests would be involved, and other surprises of no small importance would require to be set up, so as to refer to a scheme of sufficient breadth and scope to meet the numerous requirements that would undoubtedly accrue. Such as extensive slaughter houses, curing works, tanneries, piggeries, pork curing rooms and vaults, with all the necessary store rooms and packing places, business offices etc.

Of course extensive cattle yards with feeding sheds, and granaries would be indispensable, and the cultivating of feeding crops, grain vetches, roots and other green crops to the extent of thousands of acres, would very soon be required and might naturally be expected to be grown on a grand scale as the richest manures would be obtainable in abundance. Sheep ranching is now being more and more introduced into the Northwest Territories, and mutton would doubtless soon have to be dealt with the same as beef. We should therefore soon find it necessary and advantageous to erect woollen manufactories. It will thus readily be seen how one enterprise leads on to, and necessitates another. Now in respect of all this, it is confidently believed that there is no point on the whole line of the C. P. R. so conveniently and completely adapted for successfully carrying out these combined enterprises as Calgary, keeping in view its contemplated railway connections to the south and north.

There is no need to say a single word respecting the perfect situation Calgary can supply for those building and other appliances that can possibly be required for the combined works here contemplated. Near the junction of the Bow and the Elbow Rivers, and lying alongside of the railway line, are hundreds of acres of unoccupied land, level as a table top. The Elbow River at command as a water supply of the finest description and sufficient for ten times the amount that can ever be required. And in respect of the drainage of such works which in most such cases causes great trouble and often great cost. This could be most conveniently discharged at the junction of the rivers, and quickly carried away without trouble or discomfort to any one. And the steep bluff that overhangs the Elbow River would form perfect shelter from the east winds, a fact of it self of no small importance in respect of the cattle yards. In short no more perfect site for such work could possibly be selected however much of the whole Northwest Territories there might be to choose from. Here every beef steer in the Province of Alberta intended for exportation ought to be driven in, say from the 1st to the 20th of October and receive at least six weeks shelter and hand feeding, giving a moderate supply of roots, vegetables and hay, with plenty of crushed oats, by which the character of the beef would be greatly changed and improved and besides, it would bring the disposal of it down to a date or period of the year specially suited not only for the transmission of meat to the English or continental markets, but also to a date at which the highest prices rule, especially in the great markets of England.

In all probability it would soon be discovered that only hind quarters and other choice parts such as roasts, &c., &c., should be sent to foreign markets—other portions less valuable might prove advantageous to outsiders for canning or for disposal otherwise—all of which would be matter for consideration.

The above of course, are mere suggestions thrown out without that consideration which any matter of even half the importance naturally demands.

But the interests which have given rise to these ideas, are undoubtedly of great importance, and the day is close at hand when they must come up for careful and mature consideration.

I am &c.,

Jas. MOLLISON.

STOCK.

Agitation Against Foreign Live Stock.

LONDON, 17.—Canadians are urged to carefully note the success of the present agitation against foreign live stock imports. German imports have been prohibited and it is probable the Netherlands, which now stands in the same position as Canada, will also be scheduled in deference to the strong feeling among British agriculturists, though the Dutch Government protests that the country is free from disease. It is felt that there is great danger that the agitation will be turned also against Canada, unless the utmost care is exercised to maintain rigid quarantines, and very other precaution. Canadian trade here is rather uneasy.

Rivals in the Beef Export Trade.

LONDON, 18.—The Argentine Republic has been passed a law guaranteeing five per cent interest for ten years on eight million dollars to be invested in the establishment to be devoted to export of beef. This means keen rivalry for Canadian exporters to the British markets.

Ontario Steers for Alberta.

WINNIPEG, 23.—James McGregor, of Brandon, left yesterday for Ontario to ship 2000 head of young steers to Calgary, where he will graze them on his lease. The animals were purchased by agents during the winter. The first train load will reach here in about a fortnight.

STOCKMEN AT HIGH RIVER.

Discuss the Organization of a Stock Association—Delivery of Police Horses—The Round-up.

Yesterday was a day of considerable bustle at High River. The morning was taken up with the delivery of horses to the Northwest Mounted Police. Commissioner Herchmer, Col. Herchmer, Assistant Commissioner and Mr. Burnet, Chief Veterinary Surgeon of the force, arrived at High River early in the morning, and shortly after the first band of horses for the inspection of the officers was driven into George Lane's corral. The band consisted of some thirty fine animals from the Northwest Cattle Company's range. They were a very pretty lot of animals, all young and with clearly defined traces of good breeding. Bands from Mr. Cross' ranch and the High River Horse Company's ranch in turn passed before the officers, and the operation of selecting and examining the horses was watched with interest by the large number of stockmen assembled to attend the stock meeting in the afternoon. The scene in the corral was an exciting one. The horses, timid as hares, with heads up, eyes flashing and nostrils extended ran round and round the corral, while the officers selected the most promising animals. As they were designated to the men in charge of the several bands they were quickly roped and held, while the vets examined their teeth proved their legs etc. If this comparatively simple examination proved satisfactory the lassooned horse was fitted with a halter and tied up to be more critically examined before being finally accepted. The operations of placing the halters on the horses heads and examining them closely, was frequently a delicate operation.

ation. One of the Northwest Cattle Company's men received a severe bruise on the shoulder by being struck with the front feet of a horse whose lips he was trying to open to allow the vets to examine the teeth. Altogether some thirty horses were purchased, most of them coming from the Northwest Cattle company, the High River Horse Ranch company and Mr. Cross. These horses were all very superior animals, universally admired by all the stockmen present. Bone and muscle appeared to be the chief consideration of the purchasers, all the horses purchased showing remarkable development of both these elements. The police officers acknowledge the lot of horses secured to be the best purchased in the history of the force.

In the afternoon a meeting of the High River Stock Association was held and it was decided to meet for the round-up on 20th of May, provided the Willow Creek stockmen could co-operate. A deputation was appointed to wait on the Willow Creek men.

It was decided to erect a corral on Mosquito Creek, and Messrs. Skreene, Alexander and Cochrane were appointed a committee to give effect to the resolution.

At the conclusion of this meeting a meeting of all the stockmen present from the ranching districts was held, to discuss the question of either organizing a new stock association or re-constituting the Stock Growers Association, which at present has its headquarters at Macleod. Among those present were Messrs. Simpson, Barter, Lane, D. Macpherson, Ross Podger, Alexander, Skreene, Goldard, H. B. Andrews, Hull, Cross, James, Molliam, W. H. Hull and Barter.

Mr. Simpson, Northwest Cattle Company, urged the formation of a new association. The old association had been carried on in the interests of a few stockmen in the Macleod district and was of no benefit to the stock interests of Alberta as a whole. What was desired was a strong association to represent the whole stock interest of Alberta. Headquarters should be at Calgary, that was acknowledged to be the most available point. The meetings could be held at High River or where ever desired.

Mr. Barter, Quorn Ranch Company, explained that if a stock association was formed brand difficulties could be prevented, and round-up efficiently arranged. The present brand recording office at Macleod is very inefficient. The difficulty of registering a brand now is more difficult than it was worth.

Mr. G. E. Goldard, of the Row River Horse Ranch Company, said that the old association had latterly been of no use to anybody and not worth belonging to. There is plenty of work for a good association and it would have all the support required. Until there is a strong association stock interests will suffer. The brand office inefficiency was proof of this. It was generally three months before a reply could be received from Macleod to any enquiry about brands. It would be necessary to secure an act to incorporation to make the association really effective.

Mr. Barter explained that Mr. Pinchorne and other southern ranchers had started for High River to attend the meeting, but had probably been delayed. In view of the fact that so few southern men were present, he doubted whether it was advisable to go on with the organization of an association.

Messrs. Skreene, Alexander, Hull, and others expressed themselves as anxious to see a strong association formed, but favored a reorganization, if possible of the old association.

After considerable discussion it was decided to defer a decision until such time as a meeting could be arranged with more southern ranchers.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Important Business Transacted at Last Night's Meeting.

[From Wednesday's Daily.]

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held in the Council Chamber last night. The mayor and all the members were present. A letter was read from the Calgary Gas & Water Works company stating that the company had received plans and specifications of the proposed water works from T. C. Kefer, C. E. of Ottawa, which the company prepared to lay before the Council for their consideration, also asking that the council should take action in the matter as the company were anxious to complete their arrangements for proceeding with the work as soon as possible. Mr. Lucas, secretary of the Water Works company being present, explained to the council the position of matters between the council and the company. He stated that in compliance with the terms of the preliminary agreement between the council and the company. The company had taken levels, made tests, etc., and now that the company were desirous of having a final agreement for the construction of the works, entered into. After some discussion it was decided to continue the present meeting of the council on Friday night the 19th at 7:30 p. m. to consider the water works question.

A letter was read from the department of education at Regina, re exchange of the old cemetery for a portion of school section No. 11, to be used as a cemetery. The purpose of the letter was that an exchange could not be made but the board would advise the Department of the Interior to put that portion of section 11 wanted for new cemetery, up at auction at an upset price.

A letter was also read from the Department of the Interior notifying the council of an order in council giving power to the council to dispose of the old cemetery or part of it. The proceeds of the sale to be applied in purchasing new cemetery grounds. The whole question was referred to the mayor and Councilor Orr to confer with committees of the several churches and with the government and board of education.

A letter was read from the Department of the Interior in reply to the petition of the council, that the Eau Claire company should be allowed to dam the Bow river to enable that company to build a flour mill. The department asked that plans and specifications of the proposed dam should be sent to Ottawa. The chairman of public works stated that all the plans and specifications had been placed in the hands of the department of public works at Ottawa a year and a half ago. The only committee report brought in, was by A. Grant, chairman of fire water, who stated that the old abandoned tank at the Hudson Bay corner had been made to hold water, at the expense of putting a wooden plug in an auger hole in the bottom of the tank.

An amendment was introduced to by-law No. 2 and passed through two readings, providing for the extension of the limits to the line between sections 15 and 16 on Stephen Avenue.

Several small accounts were read and ordered to be paid and some new accounts referred to their respective committees. The council then adjourned.

[FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY.]

The meeting of the Town Council which was adjourned on Tuesday the 16th was resumed last night at the Council Chamber. The full Council were present. The special object of last evening's meeting was to consider the plans and specifications and proposition of the Calgary Water Works Co. for proceeding with the work of putting in the water system. The plans have been prepared by T. C. Kefer, C. E. of Ottawa. A By-law was passed last September by the Town Council authorizing Mayor Shelton to enter into a preliminary agreement with the Water Works Co. to be followed by a final agreement when the Company's plans and specifications are approved by an Engineer chosen by the Council. By-law No. 89 above referred to was read by the Clerk, also the preliminary agreement as well as the schedule of rates which the town undertake to pay for hydrants, and the maximum rates the company will be allowed to charge consumers for water. The taking of the water being voluntary on the part of the citizens. A good deal of discussion took place about the employment of an engineer by the town to review the plans prepared by T. C. Kefer. Mr. A. Lucas, secretary of the company and Messrs. Longhead & McCarthy, solicitors of the company were present and explained several points in connection with the plans, and stated that the company were desirous of getting the final agreement entered into as soon as convenient, so that they would be in a position to negotiate their bonds. It was moved by Coun. King and Hanserman that the whole matter be referred to a special committee of the mayor, W. F. Orr, A. Grant and J. Fitzgerald, this was lost. It was moved by Coun. Orr that the council go into committee of the whole and proceed at once to consider the question. This was lost. It was then moved and resolved that the question be referred to a committee of the mayor, Geo. Murdoch, J. G. Fitzgerald and A. Grant. The council adjourned to meet at 7:30 next Thursday evening to receive the committees report.

Civic Public Works.

To the Editor of the HERALD.

SIR.—I am much obliged to the Tribune for calling attention to the state of the streets and the suggestion that the chairman of public works should put the necessary machinery in operation for putting them in order. All the chairman of public works wants is authority to make the necessary expenditure and he will put the streets in good order. She same chairman put a moderate sum in the estimates last year for street grading, but the wise chairman of finance cut it all out. So that there was not a cent appropriated for street grading last year. Late in the fall when it was seen by every one that Stephen Avenue needed repairs badly, one member of the finance committee asserted that an appropriation had been made and another one asserted that no estimate had been brought in by the chairman. Happily for the chairman the Tribune reported the estimate, and afterwards showed that no thing was allowed for the work. The chairman of public works has his estimate now in the hands of the council, though they have not been made public. They are small compared with the absolute need of the streets. The question now is will they be allowed or will the matter drag along, and the fall find us just about as the spring found us? As to the present there is a large amount of filling of low places being done, and bottoms made out of such material as the town are getting out of the Alexander block cellar. The advice of the Tribune is good, to put fine gravel on top, if the chairman had fine gravel at his disposal. The present material being put on costs 10 cents per cubic yard. Screened gravel would cost not less than 60 cents per yard. So that although some of the coarser stuff may crop out when the street is finished and have to be carted off, yet it is the cheapest way and indeed the only way to get our streets made without a large expenditure. As to the loose stone now on the streets most of them have been dropped from the wagons when drawing stuff from the cellar to where it is put on different low places. The only means we have of making Sullivan Bros. pick up the stone dropped on the street, is to withhold their pay for the gravel till that is done. If the town council would rise equal to the circumstances, buy a team and get a wagon and tombo cart, the street work might be done well and on time. The public should give an expression whether they want streets, drains, &c., improved.

Yours &c.,
W. F. ORR.

I have great pleasure in announcing that I have been appointed for this celebrated preparation. The substances which enter into the composition of the preparation known as "PUTNAM'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL" are:—Cod Liver Oil, Hypophosphite of Lime, Hypophosphite of Soda, and Pancreatic Juice.

Each of these substances contains certain medicinal properties, some resembling, others differing from each other, but in every case the article has been chosen for some quality which particularly fitted it for the one purpose kept constantly in view by the inventor of the Emulsion, namely—to offer to the public a remedy for CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, and other wasting diseases, which, while it contained a large percentage of COD LIVER OIL, would present the first in such a form that the most refined taste or delicate organization would not be offended by it. Having succeeded in fulfilling this object, he then sought some remedy which would assist in the digestion of the oil, and thus make it more readily assimilated in the system, and a soluble Pancreatic Juice, extracted from the Pancreas of a young calf (the normal secretion of the Pancreas or Swallow) was added. Finally, that the nerve centres might be stimulated to a healthy condition, and that through them the digestive organs might be brought into a sufficiently healthy state to act upon the food thus artificially prepared, PHOSPHORUS in the form of Hypophosphite was added, to strengthen the system at large, and especially those parts of it which regulated the nervous and digestive systems.

We have the most complete assortment of DRUGS and SUNDRIES it is possible to obtain. Personal attention and every care bestowed upon the prescription department.
